A Happy Look Back at Christmas As It Was Once Celebrated Here

Vermicelli with anchovy and olive oil sauce and just as you're about to turn the gas off, toss in clusters of walnuts....

It's Christmas Eve in Princeton, and not so long ago, either. Catherine Maddalon, her face aglow with the remembrance, described for other long-time Princeton residents gathered for the Christmas "Townpeople" party at the library, how Italian families of her generation celebrated Christmas in Princeton.

"Christmas Eve was bigger than Christmas Day, and there was no meat because it was a fast day, but still....!"

"We began a week ahead, soaking the dried cod so the salt would come out. I remember deep-fried codfish, and smelts, too.

"And we'd make a salad with boiled, shredded codfish, escarole, celery, Italian dried black olives and green olives, pickled peppers, with oil and vinegar, salt, and slices of lemon...."

From across the library's meeting room, Joseph Procaccino calls out, "Hey, Catherine, what time do we come for dinner!" and everybody laughs.

"Just a Light Tomato Sauce." "Sometimes eels or octopus" — and other Italians in the group nod and smile — "with just a light tomato sauce. And then the dessert! Where my grandfather lived in Italy, they had a traditional cooky. You make a pie dough, then chestnuts, chickpeas, nuts and chocolate. Roll and cut it like ravioli and deep fry, and honey after it's cool."

Mrs. Maddalon's grandmother had a grocery store at 205 Witherspoon and her father was a baker. Bread only, baked with coal or wood, no gas or electricity, and laid on a peel dusted with corn-meal.

After the bread had baked, the Sons of Italy would come and bake whole chickens with the heat still in the oven.

"Yes! I remember that!" nods Emma Carnevale, "and once somebody roasted a whole lamb."

"After Christmas Eve dinner," Mrs. Maddalon smiles, "the women would go to midnight mass and the men stayed home and played cards or bingo, chestnuts roasting on the kitchen stoves for the women to eat when they came home."

Alex Taylor, black, born in 1891. "A tree, stockings. But all we got was oranges and candy."

Greta Wegstrom evokes Christmas in Sweden, before she came here, and Anna Henderson recalls the Witherspoon store that sold Swedish stars. "Ornaments were heavier then," she observes, "and we had real candles. You had to stay and watch that tree!"

A Goose from the Back Yard. Rick Endersby, master of ceremonies, and founder of Townpeople, keeps saying "and you cut your own tree" and people keep shrugging "No, we bought it."

Bessie Fallon, whose parents grew up in Ireland, remembers roast goose right from her Princeton back yard, and Irish raisin bread.

Township to Bar Flats in New Homes; Gottlieb Will Leave Planning Board

Housing was back in the news this week. Township Committee last Wednesday introduced an ordinance to keep people from building new houses that have space in them for a flat, and immediately renting that flat, and Golda Gottlieb revealed that she will no longer serve on the Planning Board when her five-year term expires December 31.

Mrs. Gottlieb resigned earlier this year because she disagreed with the trend of housing planning on the Planning Board, and then re-joined the board when its members persuaded her to do so. It was a mistake to go back, she said this week.

"The major concern of the present board is protection of the environment and to do what you can about housing within that context," she explained.

"I can best illustrate my own point of view by telling about a paper on the evolution of housing planning in Princeton written by a Rutgers student. She interviewed three members of our Planning Board. In the matter of least-cost housing, Jerome Rose said he wanted to avoid slums; Margen Penick wanted to keep the place looking nice. I said we should do whatever we could from the standpoint of public health and safety.

"The make-up of the Planning Board is overwhelmingly the other point of view from mine."

Cites Lack of Support. Other members of the housing subcommittee on which Mrs. Gottlieb has served, are Ralph Phillips, Harry Sayen, Hans K. Sander, William H. Walker and Karl Light. Mr. Sayen is serving as chairman, in Mrs. Gottlieb's place, until the end of the year.

"I don't think I can get anywhere with my views. I simply have no support," she said.

However, she does agree with Township Committee that it is a "distortion" of the municipality's flat ordinance to allow flats in new construction. "I am violently opposed," she says.

The Township has an ordinance under which home-owners may carve out a flat within a house, thereby allowing older people to go on living in a house too big for them, and providing some housing at the same time.

But Collins Development Corporation has announced plans to erect 26 new houses — with flats — on the Constitution Hill property of A. Perry Morgan. The development is on the Township Zoning Board agenda for December 28, and, in light of Township Committee's ordinance introduction last week, on the Planning Board's work session docket for Tuesday, December 27.

"If every developer says 'this ordinance allows me a flat' the housing density will be increased before it has even been established!" exclaimed Committee member Elizabeth Hutter Wednesday night.

Mrs. Hutter, who is Mayor Josie Hall's representative; on the Planning Board, urged Committee to make the flat ordinance inapplicable to subdivisions, and legal only for houses now in existence.

Christmases Past

"Christmas was a holy day," declares Alice Schannel, "high mass used to last half the night, it seemed to me. I was born on Witherspoon, moved to Chestnut, then to Maclean, then to Charlton and I've been on Wiggins now for 52 years."

"You just never WILL settle down!" somebody laughs.

Alice Margerum draws on her Pennsylvania Dutch, French, Italian and Indian ancestry to remember long-ago Princeton Christmases: the lone candle in the window to light the Christ Child's way ... Belsnickel, who took the old tree and left a game in its place ... howls of fondant (samples right there, on the library's table).

"My father was a stonemason and setter who worked on the University library," says Ida Carroll. "I was born in Scotland. Came here when I was 12, when my father sent for us."

From the Store, "We had Dundee fruit cake -- no, we bought it, didn't make it -- and shorthread," Mrs. Carroll goes on, and Matthew Maxwell, who is Scottish also, gleefully recalls the haggis -- sheeps belly stuffed with liver and Scottish oatmeal and one tablespoon was a LOT!"

"First footing, I remember," Mrs. Carroll says. "If the first person in your house on New Year's Day was a dark-haired gentleman who came in the front door and went out the back, you'd have good luck the rest of the year."

"Christmas, you read the Bible and there was fasting," Mr. Maxwell says, "and you didn't have a really good time, but on New Year's Eve, those Scots!"

"...just havin' a ball! New Year's Eve!" Ida smiles, and she begins to sing, remembering a song learned half a century ago, and joined by Mr. Maxwell; and soon by other Townspeople:

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot, and never brought to mind ... and days of Auld Lang Syne..."

and Richard W. Parker, 21, of Edinburg, Tex. are among the 32 Americans whose names were announced Saturday.

The scholarships, among the most prestigious awarded to college graduates, provide an annual stipend of 3,700 British pounds sterling (about $6,600) for two years of study at Oxford University. Selection is on the basis of intellectual attainment, character, leadership, and physical vigor.

Mr. Lander is a mathematics major and a University Scholar, one of a small group of students permitted maximum freedom in planning programs of study to fulfill their individual needs and interests. He plans to pursue a D. Phil. in mathematics at Oxford, toward an eventual career combining university teaching, consulting, and writing. He is a former reporter for The Daily Princetonian and a regular contributor to the Princeton Alumni Weekly and Business Week.

Mr. Parker is a student in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. Tentatively interested in a career in government, he will pursue Oxford's program in philosophy, politics and economics. He is an associate editor for politics of the Princeton Journal of the Arts and Sciences, a recently-founded semi-annual academic journal which publishes outstanding scholarly work by undergraduate and graduate students.

FOUR TO RUN
For School Board. All four school board members whose terms expire have said that they will run again, and two of them have completed the filing procedure. Several other petitions have been taken out but not yet filled, according to school board secretary William Evans.

The veteran of the four is Township representative Winthrop Pike, who will be seeking his fifth term. His running-mate will once again be Dale Madden, running for his second term.

Borough representatives Joseph P. Moore and Robin Wallack also plan to run again. Mr. Moore is running for a two-year term, filling out the unexpired term of Judith Getis, to whose seat he was appointed last spring after Mrs. Getis moved from Princeton. Mrs. Wallack is running for her second regular three-year term.

Mr. Pike was first elected in 1966, to a two-year term on the first elected Princeton Regional Board of Education. The charter members of that board had staggered terms. He then ran for the regular three-year term in 1968 and has run successfully each time since then.

Pike Gives Reasons. "When I ran 11 years ago, I said I wanted to do something about the high school," Mr. Pike said this week. "I'd like to stick around now and see it through. We're cranking up a study of the high school's educational offerings, which is even more important than what the renovation will do, and I'd like to be around for that."

The Pikes' son, Eric, is a junior in the high school and the youngest child, Amy, will be a freshman in 1979.

Mr. Moore said that he is running because he made a commitment to filling out the term and wishes to honor that commitment.

In a prepared statement, Mr. Madden said he based his decision on the progress made in the last six to 18 months, and his anticipation of "educational progress now possible."

NOTICE

Because of the Christmas Day holiday next week, the deadline for display advertising in TOWN TOPICS' next issue will be Friday at 5 p.m. Classified ads may be placed until 5 p.m. Tuesday. News stories and pictures should be submitted as early as possible.

"Our new superintendent is bringing exciting new leadership to the schools and is developing a new and positive relationship within our school system and with the community," Mr. Madden said.

He added that he wanted to strengthen those on the staff who "need special help and direction to improve their ability to serve our education system," adding that if such help isn't accepted or isn't effective, he'd like to have the flexibility to replace those teachers.

Deadline Dec. 29. "I like it," Mrs. Wallack said, of her work on the board. "In my three years on the board we've had three different superintendents and it was a strain problem of balancing the Now I feel we're stable -- it's been called a 'honeymoon period' -- and I feel we can get something done."

Deadline for filing petitions is technically Thursday, December 29, at 4 p.m., and Mr. Evans will be in his office from 3:30 to 4 to accept latecomers. However, the schools will be closed that day, and Mr. Evans has asked that petitions be filed no later than Wednesday, December 28, if possible.

BYPASS NOW 92-S
 As State is Asked to Act. The 92-A bypass -- now known in state circles as 92-S -- will be the subject of a resolution before Township Committee this Wednesday. The resolution, to be introduced by governing bodies of around a dozen municipalities affected by 92-S, asks the state to study the entire proposed length of the road, not one segment at a time.

At last Wednesday's meeting, Committee introduced an ordinance reducing the speed limit on The Great Road from 50 to 40 m.p.h. to the Great Road East line, and to 35 m.p.h. from there to Cherry Valley Road. Public hearing will be held December 28.

A six-month trial period for controlling parking next to Somerset Farms on Route 206 through painted lines was agreed on last Wednesday. It had been proposed at one time that curbs would be needed to restrain cars at the site.

A citizens study committee to examine the Office-Research zone may be set up following discussions at this Wednesday's meeting. Last proposed that such a committee make an economic study of the zone, a suggestion which she said had been made by Planning Board member Jerome Rose.

The group would consider whether rateables should be sought, decide what kind of they were found to be desirable, and consider the impact of balancing the residential areas and the Township budget.

Committee to Be Named. Such a group, she suggested, might decide to recommend a permanent committee which would seek out rateables, but it would not do so itself. It would be named by Township Committee, rather than the Planning Board.

Following the November election, defeated Democratic candidate David Klein announced that he would like to work on the rateables question, following lines he had discussed publicly during his campaign. Mayor Hall did not mention Mr. Klein in her proposal.

However, Margaret Broadwater, a fellow Democrat of Mr. Klein's, reminded the mayor of his offer. Mayor Hall told Mrs. Broadwater that she saw Mr. Klein as serving more effectively on the second, permanent committee if one were formed.

"If he has a predisposition toward rateables, that's not what's needed now," Mayor Hall said.

Weaning some elderly riders from Crosstown 62 to the Loop Bus would give the bus more riders and allow Crosstown more margin to help older people who really need the door-to-door service, Committee said in a discussion last Wednesday of Princeton transportation.

It has been suggested that all local transportation -- including Crosstown and the Loop bus -- be gathered under one umbrella. Joseph R. Nini, administrator, pointed out that transportation is linked to other services provided for the elderly and said the Commission on Aging might want to be under that umbrella, also.

Sydney Taggart, who has been Loop bus co-ordinator-publicist, will do that job through January, Committee decided. Mr. Nini said he did not think it was necessary to "co-ordinate" for 40 weeks in the year. The pay is $2,800 for that period.

At this Wednesday's meeting, Committee will again discuss an allocation policy for the sewer system shared by the Township with Montgomery and Rocky Hill. Committee members expressed the fear that on a first-come-first-served basis, one developer could "gobble it all up." Each of the three communities has its own allotment. The Township has set aside a special reserve for Princeton Theological Seminary, which has a partially-developed tract on Mt. Lucas Road.

In the Right Direction

Days get longer,
One by one.
Will added length
Bring added sun?

Beginning Thursday, there'll be a thin edge more daylight, because Winter will have arrived at 6:24 p.m. Wednesday, making that the shortest day of the year. Don't look for the sun to rise any earlier, however. It actually comes up a bit later for a while, with the added daylight occurring at the end of the day.

The year's shortest day may also be one of the worst weatherwise, the Man was saying. If it turned white, there was still a question whether it would last for Christmas. Temperatures somewhat above normal are forecast through the end of the week.

STUDENT BADLY HURT

In Fall from Dormitory Roof. A Princeton University senior, Peter M. Gayton, 21, received serious injuries early Friday morning when he fell 20 feet from the roof of Patton Hall to the blacktop below.

Rushed by the First Aid Unit to Princeton Medical Center, Mr. Gayton was admitted to the intensive care unit suffering from a fractured skull, a severe concussion, two fractured vertebrae and spinal cord damage. He landed on his head and back.

Mr. Gayton sustained no apparent brain damage but doctors said it would be a week or two before they will know the extent of the damage to his spinal cord. He was operated on Friday morning to relieve pressure on the damaged portion.

Sgt. Thomas Procaccina, Ptl. Peter Hanley, Ptl. Monica Sheehan, Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli and Lt. John Bellow responded after receiving a call at 3:07 from University security requesting an ambulance.

University officials report that Mr. Gayton of 131 Little Hall had been attending a

Gifts to Christmas Fund Reach $2,887.60; Need for Assistance Is Greater Than Ever

From the 1977 TOWN TOPICS Christmas Appeal:

"Money is used by the Family Service Agency at its discretion to help people who are in need. Over the years, society has changed its philosophy of help for the needy. The "basket charity," in which a nice plump turkey for the family and roller-skates for the kids were regarded as appropriate Christmas offerings to the poor has given way to the concept of helping people help themselves.

"Give them a place they can turn to, a guide over a rough path and the boost they need to climb over the top and face the world on their own."

Additional contributions to the Christmas Fund during the past week have amounted to $1,262.00 and the total at hand is now $2,887.60. During the past 12 months, a greater need for the money provided than ever before was reported by the Family Service Agency, the member of the United Fund which determines on whose behalf it should be spent.

Others less fortunate than you need your help. Every cent received goes to them—all administrative costs are met by TOWN TOPICS. Checks should be made payable to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund, and mailed to Post Office Box 664, Princeton.

birthday party for another senior, Robert Turecamo, in Patton Hall, arriving at approximately 2:30.

Mr. Turecamo was quoted as saying it became a little stuffy, so he and Mr. Gayton climbed through a window onto the roof. Mr. Gayton, who had never been on the roof before and was unfamiliar with the narrow area between the window and roof's edge, tumbled over. He is a resident of Hollywood, Calif.

STEREO SYSTEM STOLEN

From Township Home. A stereo system valued at $550 was stolen over the weekend from a living room cabinet at the home of Madeline Wallmark, 109 Littlebrook Road. Also taken were two bottles of wine and two of liquor.

Mrs. Wallmark told police that she came home Saturday evening to discover the house had been entered. The intruder, police said, used a large rock from a patio area to break a glass pane in a rear basement door, reach in and unlock the door. Sgt. Michael Kopliner investigated.

Borough police investigated the entry of a Hawthorne Avenue home Thursday between 5:40 and 6:25 p.m.

Stolen were a $300 camera, two lenses valued at $90 and $50 cash. Entry was gained through an unlocked window on the side of the house.

There were two entries Monday on Spruce Street. An apartment dweller told police that a $36 wristwatch wrapped as a gift and left on the stairs to his room was stolen between 5:30 and 11 p.m.

Another victim reported $50 taken from her wallet and a can of fruit juice from her refrigerator. There was no forced entry, police said.

STUDENT ROOM ENTERED

While Victim Is Showering. The 1940 Hall room of a 20-year old Princeton University student was entered early Thursday morning by three men while she was in the shower.

According to police, the student was in the first floor shower at the extreme end of a hallway when a light-skinned black male, wearing a drab-colored trench coat, green work pants and a dark shirt, appeared in the shower area. She asked him to leave twice.

He refused and replied: "Do you want me to join you?" With that, the student ran from the shower toward her room. As she approached her room, two black males came out and walked away. The victim slammed her door, locked it and called university security.

A student witness told police of seeing three or four black males run into a mud-covered green station wagon parked in Lot 5 on the campus and drive off.

Police said that the intruders in the student's room rummaged through her wallet and removed $5. From her jewelry box, they took two pieces of jewelry, which they dropped in the hallway when they fled. Police were called at 12:50 a.m.

GAS ATTENDANT VICTIM

Of Flim Flam. Horace Greeley, an attendant at the new Phillips 66 service station on Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road, was the victim last week of an old flim flam.

He told police that a driver had asked for $1 worth of gas and had taken a $10 bill from a large roll of bills to pay for it. As Mr. Greeley was giving him change, he then asked for change for a $20 bill.

After exchanging several bills, Mr. Greeley told Ptl. John Clausen that he became confused as to how much money he had given the driver. In checking the daily receipts at closing time, he discovered he was short $10 and $1 in gas.

Mr. Greeley described the driver as a tall black male, wearing a brown ski cap. He was driving a late 60s Buick.

FOUR GIRLS CHARGED With Marijuana Use. Four juvenile girls have been charged with possession and use of marijuana by Township police.

The girls, two 16-year olds and one 17 from Somerset and the 17-year old driver from Belle Mead, were the occupants of a car involved in a single car accident early last week on Route 206 near Ewing Street. After the investigating officer, Ptl. Mario Musso had asked them to sit in his patrol car, he detected an odor of marijuana from their clothing and breath.

Returning to the accident car, he saw a hand-rolled cigarette lying on the rear floor of the car in the beam of his flashlight. An examination of the cigarette revealed an odor of marijuana.

Police quoted one of the girls as admitting to purchasing three marijuana cigarettes for $3 while on a skiing trip. They were all released to their parents to await further action by the Township juvenile officer.

BICYCLIST INJURED

Struck By Car, Bryan Varvel, 15, 42 Sturges Way, was injured last week, when his bicycle was struck by a car on Nassau Street between Maple and Pine.

He was taken to Princeton Medical Center for treatment

Princeton, N.J.

We're starting our sale right now.

Because the dock strike is over, we have merchandise piling up in our stores.
So we're starting our sale now, which strikes us as very lucky for you.

Our once-a-year sale.
If you miss it,
you'll have to wait until 1979.

NOW!
From January 2 to January 31
practically everything is 10% to 40% off regular prices.

Reg $50 each
Limited quantities

Here it is. The stupendous furniture sale you've been waiting for the whole year. The once-a-year sale when we mark down practically everything in the whole store from 10% to 40%.

What's everything? Our regular stuff. You see, we don't bring in so-called specials or stock up on things that no one wants at regular prices the way a lot of other places do. Instead, we take our best stuff—and that includes our butcher block tables, music benches, upholstery, desks, bedrooms and chairs galore—and lower the prices. Substantially. (Of course, there are some things, like brand new items and stuff that's oversold that we don't put on sale. But then, no one is totally perfect.)

But, what is on sale is amazing. So don't miss out. Because, to the best of our knowledge (and we've done a lot of checking), we're the only furniture store we know that has only one storewide sale a year. Which means if you miss it, you'll have to wait all the way until 1979 to get bargains like these again.

Five Rings Are Taken from LaVake Jewelers; Loss Estimated to Be In Excess of $18,000

An oval display tray, containing five rings, was stolen between 3 and 4:15 last Wednesday afternoon from an unlocked display case in the front of LaVake Jewelers, 54 Nassau Street. The value of four rings was listed by police at $18,250; they did not have a value on the fifth.

Taken, police said, were a platinum sapphire ring surrounded by 28 slivered diamonds valued at $8,200, an oval sapphire and diamond ring valued at $3,300; an emerald and diamond ring and a swirl gold ring with rubies and diamonds. The theft was reported by manager Philip P. Porado. Det. Timothy Huizing is continuing the initial investigation by Ptl. Gerald Patterson.

There were three larcenies on the Princeton University campus.

A bank deposit bag taken from a safe in the University's Student Center yielded $309.75 -- the safe was locked but there were no signs of a forced entry -- and a $350 functional generator was reported stolen from Room B117 in the Engineering Quadrangle Building. Again, no forced entry.

Taken from Room 203 in the Woodrow Wilson building were several law books with an approximate value of $100, a $150 raincoat and a brief case. The unforced entry was reported at 11:45 Thursday morning.

Cars Rifled. As always, parked cars were a favorite target. Frederick A. Loesser of Skillman reported the theft of a $130 CB radio from his station wagon while it was parked all day at the University's ROTC building off Washington Road. Police found pry marks on the car door.

Michael Bonotto, 48 Clover Lane, lost a $300 radio scanner. He told police he parked his car in the Princeton Shopping Center lot about 6:50 p.m., locked it and turned on a burglar alarm.

Less than ten minutes later, he returned to discover the front door open, the scanner gone and his CB radio partially removed from the dashboard. The alarm had been shut off. Police believe that a wire was used to unlock the door.

In the Borough, a Princeton University student reported the theft of a CB radio from his car parked behind Dial Lodge last week, and a $60 CB unit engraved with a Princeton First Aid Squad number was removed from the car of a Princeton resident while it was parked in the YMCA lot. A vent window had been broken.

The hubcaps ($200 value) of a car of a Pennington resident were removed while it was parked in the Y lot and a Township resident reported on Monday the theft of the hubcaps from her 1976 car.

While her car was parked last week in the Engineering Quadrangle lot off Olden Street, a Lawrenceville car crossed the sidewalk area, it struck the rear fender of the bicycle, throwing Varvel to the pavement.

There were no witnesses and no indication of improper driving, Ptl. Patterson said in his report. It was raining heavily at the time -- 3:13 last Wednesday afternoon.

Car Hits Tree. A driver and his passenger were injured last week when their car left Route 206 to avoid a collision and struck a tree.

The driver, Edward J. Dobkowski, 19, Cherry Brook Drive, complained of head pains; his passenger, Robert Peters, 22, 44 Dodds Lane, sustained lacerations of the face.

Mr. Dobkowski told police that he had just left the Somerset Farms parking area and entered the flow of traffic on 206 when he failed to observe a car heading in the same direction. He left the roadway to avoid a collision. There were no charges.

DECISION NEARS

On Rent-Levelling. By the end of Borough Council's work session this Wednesday (8 p.m., Borough Hall), there will be a decision on the direction of rent-levelling. Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week. The present ordinance expires January 31.

Council members Nelson van den Blink and Leona Medvin, who have been assembling data, will make a report and recommendations. It is hoped that enough basics will be determined to enable municipal attorney Gordon Griffin to draw up a draft ordinance which can then be discussed at Council's January 5 agenda session.

TWO LOSE LICENSES

For Drunken Driving. Two Princeton residents have their licenses revoked, after each was found guilty for the second time of drunken driving.

In Borough court Monday, Judge Philip Carchman revoked the license of Louise Forer, 113 Dempsey Avenue, for one year. In addition, she was fined $510, received a suspended 30-day sentence to the Mercer County Workhouse and was placed on probation for a year.

William F. Williams, 126 John Street, received the identical fine, sentence and probation but had his license revoked for three years.

Lucien Yokana, 87 Battle Road, and Keith Spooner, Route 1, Princeton, were each fined $30 for careless driving, while Deborah Richey, 112 Deercreek Apts., Plainsboro, was fined $21 for speeding. Robert J. Barton, East Mountain Road, Belle Mead, and Deborah Mitchell, 101 Magnolia Lane, paid $15 and $10 for overdue inspection.

Township Court. In Township court last week, four were fined for stop-sign violations.

George M. Scott, 195 John Street, paid $40; Anne M. Hook, 851 Mount Lucas Road, $35; Geoffrey E. Sage, Route 518, Blawenburg, $30; and Barbara Neilson, 677 Cherry Hill Road, $25.

Speeders were Richard O. Lovering, 54 Hillside Avenue, fined $50; Christopher E. Helm, 207 Mount Lucas Road, $40; Patti A. Hawley, 35 Hillside Road, $34; and Carol L. Jefferson, Cherry Valley

Flu Bug Bites Here--School Attendance Off

Temperatures of 102 Fahrenheit are no way to begin the winter, but a lot of Princeton and Mercer County residents seem to be getting started exactly that way.

Princeton's public schools (private ones are already on holiday) haven't been closed for flu, but they've been running a temperature amounting to a 10 to 11 percent absentee rate, counting students and teachers together. Normal absenteeism is two to three percent.

Littlebrook had a throbbing 18.5 percent Monday, but Janice Mowers, the school nurse who handles the absentee count, says she always takes Monday morning absences with a grain of aspirin.

At John Witherspoon Middle School, the rate was 11 percent Monday and 13 percent Tuesday; at Riverside, 8 percent Monday, 10 on Tuesday; Community Park 9 percent both days. Figures for the high school weren't in for Tuesday at press time, but 10 percent of staff and student body was out on Monday.

It's flu, ear infections and strep throat, Mrs. Mowers says.

Road, who had her $24 fine suspended but had to pay $10 court costs.

COMMISSIONS TO JOIN

Environmental Merger Set. Princeton will have a joint Borough-Township Environmental Commission following expected passage this Wednesday by Township Committee of the required ordinance. Borough Council's parallel action took place last Wednesday.

The new joint Commission will start work January 1, and the separate Borough and Township bodies will automatically go out of existence. Each governing body will appoint four members to the new 11-member group. The other three voting members will be appointed from their own membership by the Planning Board, Health Commission and Recreation Board. Non-voting liaison members will be appointed from each governing body.

The budget for the new commission has already been submitted. Its chief item is a new pump for the Wildlife Sanctuary which pumps water from the canal and provides a refuge for waterfowl. Because of last year's mosquito problem, the water level may be lowered for a time in winter, and the new pump will be installed at that time.

Financing for the new Commission will be on a rateables basis, with the Township paying about 64 percent and the Borough 36 percent.

TWENTY BIRTHS LISTED

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Griggs, 5 Union Street, Franklin; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Worrell, 26 Allen Drive, Allentown, both on December 11; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McGowan, 192 Princeton Arms Apartments, South Cranbury; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Timperman, 216 Burd Street, Pennington, both on December 13; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Comer, 11 Greenbrook Drive, Cranbury, December 14;

Hot Punch

As Joseph L. Ringland was concocting a punch on his stove in his home at 74 Russell Road Friday afternoon, it boiled over and the alcohol in the punch ignited. The resultant fire charred the wall behind the stove and the bottoms of several wall cabinets before it was put out by a home extinguisher Sgt. Robert Heacock, who responded to the 1:06 call, requested one piece of fire apparatus to clear smoke lingering in the kitchen.

FUND ESTABLISHED

To Honor Oppenheimer. A Fund named for J. Robert Oppenheimer has been established at the Institute for Advanced Study. Dr. Oppenheimer was Director of the Institute from 1947 to 1966. The fund was suggested by several admirers of Dr. Oppenheimer to honor, along with the rest of his achievements, the spirit and practice of the Director during two decades of leadership. Among the sponsors are Robert Goheen, George Kennan, David Lilienthal, Linus Pauling and Hans Bethe.

According to Harry Woolf, the present Director, the fund will be used to bring to the Institute's community of scholars distinguished men and women from fields which happen not to be represented in a permanent way on the Institute's faculty. It will also serve to reinforce the quality of research and scholarship

No Flats in New Homes

Master Plan Essential. The housing sub-committee of the Planning Board has been wrestling with the housing element for new master plan for some time, most recently in conjunction with studies of land use.

"How long can you go on waiting for the new master plan?" asked municipal attorney Gordon Griffin. "That's been a will-o'-the-wisp over the horizon for half a generation. What are you after, in changing the flat ordinance? Do you want to treat newcomers differently from others?"

"I have a strong feeling we should let the Planning Board act," Mayor Hall said. "they'll be telling us where more density should be. It's almost 'spot planning' to allow a developer to put in flats."

"We've been waiting a long time for a master plan and the town has been developing in the interim," observed Committee member David Blair. "I suspect the Planning Board hasn't come up with a plan because it can't get a consensus."

In the end, Committee unanimously introduced an ordinance that says an owner cannot alter a house to construct a flat within it, until five years after the certificate of occupancy has been granted, or five years from the date the house was otherwise legally occupied.

Public hearing will be at 5 p.m. at the year-end Committee meeting Wednesday, December 28.

Gloomy Forecast. Mrs. Gottlieb predicts that after she is off the Planning Board, "they'll probably do something... and I won't like it!"

She said that after she returned to the board, following the re-consideration of her resignation, she was unable to get action on substantive issues.

"For example, what is Princeton's 'fair share' of the regional housing need? What does the Planning Board mean by 'least-cost' housing? These things kept being put off. Discussion simply went down the drain."

"At the same time, they were going over our housing policy statement paragraph by paragraph, changing a word here and there. It looked as though I were supporting it, and I found this intolerable."

"I thought our task was to flesh-out the housing policy statement but each time I tried, that decision-making process was deferred."

Mrs. Gottlieb said that probably, after she is off the board, she will try to organize citizens who feel as she does.

"People talk to me and I know they're out there, but they rarely attend Planning Board meetings. I'd rather be out there, too, where I can speak my mind. I will be there — but on the other side of the table."

—Katharine H. Bretnall

SEAMAN RETURNS

To Recruit Others. "Boot camp taught me the meaning of self-discipline. I never expected that," says Navyman Morris Johnson. "I expected it would be a place where you just learn about the Navy."

Having graduated from Basic Storekeeper School in Meridan, Miss., the 18-year-old nephew of Mr. and Mrs. William Loman of 56 Leigh Avenue is back in New Jersey telling other young people about his first few months of Navy life.

The young Navy Storekeeper Seaman Recruit is working with Navy recruiters in Trenton under the Navy's Recruiting Assistance Program (RAP). Through this program, young men and women complete recruit training and a specialized school, then return to their home areas for up to 30 days to work with their recruiters.

Seaman Johnson, a 1977 graduate of Princeton High School, signed up for the Navy in April under the delayed enlistment program. Before reporting for active duty in July, he worked for Sears Roebuck and Co. here.

"I joined the Navy because I wanted to travel and also save some money," he says. "Some of my friends had joined the Navy and seemed to be doing okay. With the money I save, I'm planning to go to college and study business administration after my enlistment."

Storekeeper Johnson will put his training to use in his first permanent duty station following his RAP assignment. He will report to the Naval Air Facility, Washington, D.C.

Reduced Tax Base Feared.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
A recent article in the November 3 issue of the Hunterdon County Democrat, shows that reductions in property assessments granted by the Hunterdon County Tax Commission due to the effects of Flemington Borough's rent levelling ordinance will cause that community to suffer a tax loss of $14,842. If the present rent levelling ordinance is renewed in Princeton, it is almost certain to have the same effect here. In view of increased costs to Princeton Borough of sewer taxes, sewer operating charges and extensive repairs to the high school building, this is hardly the time to lower the Borough's tax base.

If the rent levelling ordinance is continued, it is only fair to make owners of one family houses and commercial property aware that they will have to pay higher taxes to make up for future tax reductions on residential rental property.

Borough Housing Defended.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The article in TOWN TOPICS concerning the Borough Council's discussion of Maple and Franklin Terraces, despite the information contained therein, was very disturbing. Not because it described the Housing Authority's fiscal difficulties in coping with the maintenance needs of the two projects, of which the public needs to be aware, but because of the implications and tone of the article, which left me with the impression that the Terraces are dilapidated, unkempt housing, rather than the attractive and comfortable dwellings which they are.

We do indeed have serious maintenance needs there; Franklin Terrace is 40 years old and Maple Terrace is 30 years old. They have continuously served low income and elderly Princeton families for those years, without either local or federal subsidies.

That is the reason why the Housing Authority Board approached the Borough council for their advice and assistance, and that is also why, when Mr. Williams of the Regional Health Commission informed me that he had received a complaint from a tenant at Maple Terrace regarding chronic dampness and inadequate heat, we welcomed his inspection, since we felt that this would lend impact to our considerations.

In our opinion, some of the violations and/or recommendations cited by Mr. Williams, following the inspection which he made accompanied by our maintenance superintendent, were valid and useful, but a number seemed hardly of a nature to require the attention of the Board of Health, such as leaking sink faucet, window lock not operating properly, storm door closing broken, storm window pane broken, grease around stove of two elderly tenants. These are the kinds of problems that crop up regularly, and are taken care of routinely by work order as soon as possible after being reported by a tenant, or after a scheduled annual inspection.

Painting is done on a cyclical basis, and regardless of the fact that your article breezily stated that 'peeling paint was common' (not true) Mr. Williams cited only minor incidences of need for painting, such as two exterior rear doors and a few instances of a corner wall, ceiling, etc. The space heaters are gas-operated and Public Service is called immediately whenever there is any problem or hint of one. The unsealed heater vent pipes (cited as violations in five apartments, not in almost every one as stated in your article), were taken care of immediately. Mr. Williams did not state anywhere in the violations, or to me personally, that the heaters were dangerous.

NOTICE

Letters to TOWN TOPICS Mailbox should be typed, double-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Letters longer than 500 words may be edited or omitted entirely at the discretion of the editor. Letters on subjects not specifically related to the Princeton area may be published.

To Trace Highway Routes

The Environmental Commissions of the Borough and Township have invited Samuel Hamill, director of the Middlesex - Somerset - Mercer Regional Study Council, Inc., to speak at their joint meeting Wednesday, December 21, at 8 in Township Hall.

Mr. Hamill has been asked to report on the current status of Routes 1-95, A-92 and 206. The environmental commissioners of all neighboring affected municipalities have also been invited.

We have on our maintenance staff two men who are responsible for all the maintenance work at four separate projects, one of which is 40, one 30, one 25 and one 10 years of age. They do an exemplary job in maintaining these projects, the large majority of our tenants are responsible and cooperative, and the Board members and staff of the Housing Authority manage these projects prudently and conscientiously.

We would all do well then to seek ways of supporting these efforts by providing the encouragement and financial support that will make this housing available to the community for many years to come.

E. KARIN SLABY
Executive Director
Borough Housing Authority

The University of Pittsburgh has published "The Overthrow of Allende and the Politics of Chile, 1964-76," by Paul E. Sigmund of 8 Evelyn Place, professor of politics at Princeton University. The book is based on 15 years of study and observation of Chile, including a semester as visiting professor at two universities in Santiago.

The book argues that the fundamental reasons for the overthrow of Allende were internal -- a politically motivated inflationary economic policy and the deliberate polarization of politics on a class basis which was more effective in mobilizing the middle class against Allende than in rallying the lower classes to his support. It also compares Allende's policies to those of his Christian Democratic predecessor, Eduardo Frei, and concludes that what happened to Chilean democracy can happen in more developed countries, especially in Europe, if inflation and ideologized politics produce political polarization.

OFFICES, HOUSES

In Township. Plans for a two-story, 32,000-square-foot office building and five four-bedroom houses on the northern edge of the Township on Mt. Lucas and Herrontown Roads, are moving ahead, developer Benedict Yedlin said this week.

Both the office building and the houses are permitted uses in their zones and Mr. Yedlin does not need variances. He will take his house proposals to the sub-division committee of the Planning Board January 18, and to the Planning Board on February 1.

The office building has been seen in "early review" by the Environmental Design Review Board and Mr. Yedlin hopes for a formal presentation February 13.

The land parcel lies in two zones. Access to the houses will be from Mt. Lucas Road. The office building nearby, will be across Herrontown Road from Princeton House.

Mr. Yedlin will sewer his projects through a connection with the Montgomery - Rocky Hill - Princeton sewer system. Princeton Township Committee is currently working out ways to allocate the municipality's share of that system and Mr. Yedlin is waiting for their decision.

You Don't Have to Go Far from Home To Find "High-Flyers" in the Market

In the past 12 months one of the 15 stocks listed in TOWN TOPICS' weekly stock quotations of area firms has enjoyed a dramatic rise of 2,000 percent.

The stock of Dataram Corporation, Princeton-Hightstown Road, Cranbury, which sells digital equipment and sub-assemblies for mini-computers, was listed a year ago in the issue of December 23, 1976 as 1 3/4 bid, 2 1/2 asked. Last week's TOWN TOPICS showed the stock at 20 3/4 bid, 24 3/4 asked.

According to John Gilligan, president, the spectacular rise is wholly attributable to good earnings reports. In the fiscal year ending April 30, 1977, its tenth anniversary year, Dataram reported record revenues of $10.7 million, an increase of 120 percent over the previous year's revenues of $4.9 million. Net earnings were $1,158,761, or $2.40 per share, compared to last year's net earnings of $15,366 or $.03 per share.

The company attributed the impressive year-to-year revenue gain to the industry's recovery from recession and its ability to increase its share of the core memory market.

Earnings have continued to rise in the first six months of the current fiscal year. Revenues for the first quarter, which ended July 31, were $3,703,000, an increase of 108 percent over last year's $1,781,000 for the same period. Net earnings for the first quarter were $489,000 or $1.03 per share compared to $157,000 or $.31 for the first quarter last year.

Revenues for the second quarter ended October 31 were $4,051,000, an increase of 83 percent over last year's second quarter revenues of $2,215,000. Net profit in the quarter approximately tripled to $589,000, or $1.24 per share from $216,000, or $.42 per share last year. Last year's second quarter net earnings included an extraordinary credit of $65,000, or $.12 per share due to tax loss carry forward.

Revenues for the six months totaled $7,754,000, compared to last year's six months revenues of $3,996,000, an increase of 94 percent. Six months net income was $1,078,000, or $2.26 per share. Last year's net income was $373,000, or $.73 per share.

Tax-loss carry forwards contributed $145,000 or $.28 per share, to last year's six months net income.

Whole Earth to Close Its Restaurant Friday; Limited in Space, "It's Been Too Successful"

The Whole Earth Center at 360 Nassau Street has decided to close the popular, limited menu, luncheon restaurant on its premises.

Friday will be the last day of an operation that offered homemade vegetable soups, sandwiches of cheese and sprouts on whole grain breads, spinach salads and desserts sweetened with honey and fruit. A variety of teas and homemade muffins were available in the afternoon.

According to Jeff White, manager, and Barbara Parmet, one of the founders of the Whole Earth Center seven years ago, the fundamental cause for the closing is too much success. Limited to 20 seats by zoning regulations and a restricted parking area, the restaurant has been heavily in demand from its beginning in May, 1976. The lines of patrons waiting to be served often stretched out the door, putting acute pressure on those already eating and on the kitchen staff.

"It reached a point," says

Mr. White, "where we had to decide whether we should continue with the hassles of running a restaurant or use the space more creatively."

Mrs. Parmet says the situation is reminiscent of the problems encountered by the Whole Earth Center's original retail store on Nassau Street, which, from the day it opened, had outgrown its first minuscule quarters and within nine months had moved to its present location.

"We either had to move the store to larger quarters or go out of business," she recalls. "Unfortunately, it is not so easy to move a restaurant." Although the restaurant has carried its weight financially, it has not generated any additional funds which would enable the management to open a full-scale restaurant.

The first priority will be to convert the dining area into desperately-needed retail food and book space and to enlarge the stock of alternative energy equipment. In addition, the management is presently exploring the possibility of operating a bakery in the existing kitchen area. Breads for both the store and the restaurant have been baked there since June, and there seems to be a great demand for quality baked goods.

Some of the equipment will be sold to a health food store in Somerville which is in the process of opening a restaurant, and contributors who donated funds to enable the restaurant to open 18 months ago will be asked if they want their "restaurant" donation refunded.

Because the problem seems to be that the limited space at the restaurant can not comfortably accommodate the large number of people who are looking for a good place in which to eat in Princeton, both Mr. White and Mrs. Parmet hope that someone will start a full-scale restaurant along the lines begun by the Whole Earth Center. They will be happy to impart the knowledge they have gained from the experience.

—Barbara L. Johnson

On Re-Inspection. A re-inspection Monday of the Rusty Scupper Restaurant, Alexander Street, resulted in a "Satisfactory" rating -- a clean bill of health -- from Princeton's Board of Health. "Satisfactory" is the highest rating.

Inspector Leonard Williams reported that all items on his list had either been completely corrected, or were "in process" -- new racks ordered, and so on.

The Rusty Scupper was closed for a day early in December following a health inspection, opening the following day on a "Conditional" basis.

As every Princeton resident must know by now, there are "Princeton's" in almost every state in the union. When an order for flowers comes in by FTD, a shop has to know whether it's the "right" Princeton and sometimes this is tricky, especially if there is an address that might or might not be in the "right" Princeton.

Sleuthing ability, therefore, is as important as skill in flower arranging if you own a flower shop. So, as you'll see in a minute, is expertise in the international money market.

Florence Hillier, founder and owner of The Flower Basket, has all these qualities, and has received, in acknowledgement of them, the "top 1,000 member" award from Florists' Transworld Delivery (FTD) for achieving a high level of customer satisfaction in both sending and receiving orders. A minimum number of complaints, is the broad criterion for selection, according to Mrs. Hillier.

A WINNER: Florence Hillier, founder of The Flower Basket shops, and the plaque awarded to her by Florists' Transworld Delivery as one of the "top 1,000 members."

In the 35 years The Flower Basket has been in existence, Mrs. Hillier has sent flowers to the Queen of England (from a loyal subject living in Princeton), to Margaret Truman when she appeared in McCarter Theatre (from Winston Churchill's daughter, Sarah)...and to Elvis Presley's funeral.

For international purposes, FTD has its own unit of currency called a "fleurin." For example, 40 fleurins is $20. This eases international transactions, but Mrs. Hillier still has to keep track of the devaluation of the dollar.

Widely known as a flower arranger, Mrs. Hillier has won many gold medals in that field, and is the author of the best-selling "Basic Guide to Flower Arranging."

Her three shops -- at 110 Nassau, Applegate's on Palmer Square and Flower Basket Number Two in the Princeton North Shopping Center, have been featured as model shops in FTD trade publications. They were designed by Mrs. Hillier's son, the architect J. Robert Hillier and Mrs. Hillier says, "they function well."

About all those "Princeton's": if you get an order for Euclid Avenue in Princeton, would you try Euclid Avenue in Kingston as a start, go back to the original sender or both of the above? The case is pending as we go to press.

*If you are like most of us,
Christmas doesn't seem quite the same any more.*

Somehow, the tinsel doesn't glitter so much and at times, we feel the spirit of Christmas is lost.

*At such times, simply look into the eyes of the nearest child.
You'll find that the spirit is not really lost at all.*

It's simply in safer hands.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

PHS IS ONE of 21 high schools in the area taking part in a project designed to discover how students write. Co-sponsored by Rutgers University and the New Jersey State Department of Education, the project has been in existence for only a few years. Students are asked to write spontaneously on the same topic for twenty minute periods on two separate days. They also fill out a long questionnaire on attitudes concerning writing. In addition, they take a College Board test on usage and writing that is often used as a college entrance requirement. This process, begun in the fall, is repeated in the spring to measure progress.

The essays are ranked by teachers who have taken a Rutgers - sponsored summer course in writing. Teachers of classes now participating in the project will also take this course and train their colleagues in the skills of writing and the teaching of writing. Ms. Joan Goodman's students at PHS responded enthusiastically to the project. Information arising from it will be shared with them in the spring. Future plans include expansion of the writing project to include grades K-12.

THE LEARNING Community at PHS recently invited Isabelle Sayen as a guest speaker. Her topic dealt with the implementation and consequences of atomic energy as a power source. Later the group visited P.S.E. & G's "Second Sun", the floating nuclear information center in Burlington. The talk and visit were both part of a study concerned with the nation's energy and power potential.

THE JW LIBRARY has a new and eye-catching exhibit - a mud hut. As a conclusion of their study on the countries of Africa, social study students of House 10, under the supervision of their teacher, Mrs. Phipps, made a replica of the African mud house found in the rain forest region. The house, built on a leaf covered platform, uses a wire framework covered with sand and gravel mix; the roof has branches and straw to simulate thatch. A book display of reference materials on African art, countries and traditions rings the house. An explanation of the house itself as well as the region, geographic location and climate of the area lends additional background for the many students who have seen the exhibit.

PING PONG season is at hand, and JW students have nine tables for lunch-time recreation in the school commons area. The physical education department makes use of these folding tables during class time, and a ping pong tournament will be held later in the school term.

Unfortunately, paddles are in short supply, the demand for sign-out exceeds the number on hand, so it's singles only unless more paddles can be found. If you have an extra - or unused - set of paddles, JW would love to put them to frequent use.

HOUSE six at JW is spending the final class period each day during this week in a crafts project to provide gifts for family and feathered friends. Bird feeders of several types as well as items for seasonal decor are among the projects each sixth grader may choose to make.

WEDNESDAYS are still busy days. Elementary school teachers have finished the sessions devoted to reading and are now at work on "language arts", the second of the three Rs. When 1978 rolls around the math curriculum will come up for close study at both the building level and the district, too. Art teachers have been meeting to draw up a curriculum for Kindergarten through twelfth grade while the science committee toils with its field. High school staff have been absorbed with Middle States Association Evaluation; this work will continue in high gear after the holiday vacation period. If you've been meaning to sign up to help, call now (924-5601) to add your name to the list.

JOHNSON PARK'S PTO has helped the harried-parent syndrome by making a list of current activities for children that runs the gamut from theatre and museums to art shows and library programs; both free and admission - charged sessions are included. It's a great list to have when "What can we do today?" is heard during vacation times. If you'd like a copy, drop by the school during the regular school days, and they will share this information with you.

Candlelight and Music Will Mark Services Churches Here are Planning for Christmas

Choirs, carols and candlelight, pageants and processions, will all be featured in special services Christmas Eve and Christmas morning at area churches.

Nassau Presbyterian Church, Nassau Street and Palmer Square will hold traditional Christmas Eve services Saturday at 5 and 10 p.m. The first is a one-half hour family service.

The services will feature music by the carol, junior and senior high, and adult choirs who will be accompanied by organ, flute and guitar. Tableaux of Nativity scenes will be presented by the youth of the church. There will be carol singing and the traditional lessons, read by church members as done each year in Kings College Chapel, Oxford, England.

The service will close with a candlelight recessional. Coordinating the service are Richard Loatman and Helen Wise, and the choir directors are Mary Krimmel, Linda Beyea and Mr. Loatman.

The United Methodist Church, Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue, will hold its traditional family candle lighting service on Christmas Eve at 7:30. Family worship and caroling will take place Sunday, Christmas Day, at 11 when church school classes will not be held but the nursery will be open.

Trinity Episcopal Church, Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, will have a children's Creche Service Saturday at 5 p.m. Also on Christmas Eve there will be singing by the choir and caroling at 11, followed by a service of Holy Communion at 11:30 p.m.

On Christmas Day there will be a service of Holy Communion at 10:30 a.m.

All Saints' Episcopal Church, All Saints' Road, will celebrate the Feast of the Nativity with a series of services beginning Saturday, Christmas Eve. At 7:30 p.m. the Girls' Choir will sing Benjamin Britten's "A Ceremony of Carols," for treble voice and harp. A service of Solemn Eucharist will follow at 8:00.

Solemn Eucharist will be celebrated again at 10 p.m., and the congregation and choir of the church will join in singing traditional Christmas music and carols before the service. On Sunday, Christmas Day, Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 10 a.m.

On New Years' Day, the Feast of the Holy Name of Jesus, there will be a service of Holy Eucharist and the Laying on of Hands for Healing at 5:30 p.m., in addition to the morning services of Holy Eucharist at 7:30 and 10 a.m.

The Rev. Dr. A. Orley Swartzentruber is rector of All Saints'. Priests associate of the church are the Rev. George C. Alexander, the Rev. Ronald P. Conner and the Rev. Peter R. Powell. The All Saints' choirs are under the direction of David Agler, Nancianne Parrella and Harriet McCleary.

A special invitation is extended to everyone to attend church services on Christmas Day in First Church of Christ, Scientist, 16 Bayard Lane, at 11 a.m. or 7:30 p.m.

Bible verses to be read will include, "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift" (11 Corinthians); "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder:..." (Isaiah); and the Christmas story from Luke 1 and Matthew 2. Also to be read is the statement from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, "Led by a solitary star amid the darkness, the Magi of old foretold the Messiahship of Truth."

The services will be conducted by Anthony W.R. Coomber, First Reader, and Mrs. Jeanne M. Miller, Second Reader. Christmas music will include a vocal solo, "Blest Christmas Morn" in a setting by Frederic W. Root.

Christmas Services at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, will include a young children's service Saturday at 5 at which youngsters will place small animals and Nativity figures around the Creche and be treated to a piece of Jesus' birthday cake afterwards. For older children, families and individuals Festival Eucharist will be celebrated Christmas Eve at 8 and 11.

On Christmas Day Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 8 and 11. On January 1 there will be Holy Eucharist at 8 a.m. and a Service of Lessons and Carols at 10.

Three services will highlight the Christmas program at Price of Peace Lutheran Church, Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction. On Christmas Eve a candlelight family service will be held at 7:30 with a children's sermon, singing by both the adult and children's choir, the presentation of gifts to needy families and the singing of well known Christmas carols. At the 11 p.m. Christmas Eve service the congregation will all hold small lighted candles, and there will be special music from the senior choir, the celebration of Holy Communion and more familiar carols.

The Christmas Day service will be held at 11 and will again feature the senior choir, the celebration of Holy Communion and carols. Everyone is invited. The Rev. Frederick Schott is pastor.

At the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill and State Roads, there will be a children's family service Saturday at 5. The newly formed children's choir will sing, and a play, "Christmas is Holy" will be presented.

A candlelighting service for adults will be held at 9. The choir, directed by Laura Hayes, will sing, with Ginnie Murphy, Judith Hayes and Bruce Nobles as soloists. Dr. Edward Frost, minister, will read "A Christmas Story" by Richard Burton.

There will be no service on Christmas morning.

Newgrange, a New School with a New Philosophy

No school situation is ideal for all children. That is the philosophy of Newgrange, a newcomer this semester to the roster of Princeton private schools.

Frances Benson, for five years a learning disability consultant with the Princeton Regional Schools (and Johnson Park classroom teacher before that), and Lois Young, a school nurse and learning consultant, founded the school together and share in its direction.

Ten youngsters ranging in age from 10 to 14, constitute the present student body. The directors want to keep the school small, but they may take new students for the second semester. And as time goes by, they may expand the upper age range to include high school.

Who studies at Newgrange? "Basically, three kinds of kids," Ms. Benson explains. "Sometimes a child will have trouble focusing in a large group. Maybe he just isn't a self-organizer, or maybe overwhelmed by the options. Some kids thrive in a large environment; other kids quite as able, need a smaller one. "Then, there is the child with less verbal talent who is superb on the non-verbal section of the Wexler Intelligence Test. In a highly verbal community like Princeton, his potential may be overlooked. A teacher might say of him 'He has these great ideas, how come his report was so bad?' "And finally, of course, the child with a specific learning disability, and all six of our teachers are trained learning disability specialists."

PUPIL-TEACHER: Frequently, that one-to-one relationship is used at Newgrange School, where matching the child to the learning style appropriate for him as an individual, is a vital teaching element. Here, director Frances Benson works with Ray Kavanaugh.

More Boys Than Girls. Ms. Benson refers to her students as "he" because only one of the ten Newgrange students is a girl. Boys always have more learning problems than girls at this age, and in reading clinics, Ms. Benson says, the boy-girl ratio is usually 15-1. Improvement of learning skills is the basis of the curriculum. In the pleasant, gracious, sun-filled rooms of the stately house at 457 Nassau, rented from the Jewish Center, Newgrange students carry out their contract with the teacher.

will explore the student's interests, and maybe suggest other books". One excited mother called Ms. Benson: "Why, he was just sitting there in his room, READING A BOOK!" she exclaimed. She had never seen her 12-year-old do that before.

"Asking Questions. In science and social science, students explore such questions as "How do you learn?" They learn the questioning approach, and they talk about such things as "How do I ask questions? What am I looking for?" Individualized instruction, with the pupil proceeding at his own level, often involves just one pupil and just one teacher -- "a one-to-one basis," is the phrase teachers use.

"All this means we can set realistic expectations and make sure they are met," says Ms. Benson. "You can't get away with anything around here!" grinned one boy. Another, a 14-year-old, confided to Ms. Benson, "I really am learning!"

For youngsters who have trouble organizing, subjects as disparate as art and cooking have been found to be very helpful. "The art experience is very integrative," Ms. Benson says. "You must focus on many aspects of a subject, you must see perspective. And if a kid was in public school and needed remedial work, he probably had no time to take art."

"Cooking is a good organizing task, too. You must plan ahead and work step-by-step. It's a pleasant way of reinforcing organization." Each child has a teacher-counselor. Every day they confer about the goals accomplished, the goals for the next day and what's standing in the way of accomplishment. Weekly progress reports go to

"The learner must be ready to take on responsibility and be ready to learn," Ms. Benson emphasizes. "We wouldn't take a kid otherwise. 'Are you willing to do your part?' we ask, 'because the learning process can only be successful if you cooperate.' Reading, writing, mathematics, logic, study skills, organizing. These are Newgrange basics.

Every day in the week, a student works on his weekly writing project. He meets daily with his teacher to discuss progress, revise, proof-read, explore alternate ways of expressing ideas. "Most kids this age have no time to 'just read' and we provide that," Ms. Benson continues. "We go to the library regularly, and the kids take out books, read them and then simply talk about them with a teacher on an individual basis. The teacher

News Of The THEATRES

READY FOR FARCE?
McCarter Has One Coming. George Kelly's 1921 farce, "The Torch-Bearers" will usher in 1978 for McCarter as the fourth play in the current drama season. Opening night is Thursday, January 19. The play will run through February 5.

George Kelly - Princess Grace is his niece - had been acting on the vaudeville circuits, writing his own sketches, when he decided to do a full-length play. "The Torch-Bearers" was the comic hit of the 1921 season in New York, and McCarter says it has, like vintage champagne, improved with age.

"The Torch-Bearers" assembles a group of rich amateur actors who have decided to put on a perfectly terrible one-act play. Hilariously, disaster piles on disaster, leading to a second act which is, McCarter assures us, "one of the high points in comic drama."

BIP IS BACK

With Marceau, Mr. Bip of the white-painted face, striped jersey, battered hat and trembling flower, will appear once again on McCarter's stage when Marcel Marceau returns for two performances:

One More Nutcracker

With all seats sold, there was only one thing left to do: schedule an additional performance. It will be this Friday, December 23, at 4:30 p.m. at McCarter.

"The Nutcracker" is presented each year by the Princeton Ballet Society and McCarter Theatre, and this year's production - in addition to new costumes - will feature guest appearances by two dancers from the American Ballet Theatre.

Starr Danias will dance the role of the Sugarplum Fairy, and John Prinz will be the Cavalier.

Reservations may be made for the extra performance by calling 921-8700.

Thursday and Friday, January 5 and 6, at 8 p.m. each evening.

M. Marceau, regarded almost universally as the greatest living mime, places his Bip character in all kinds of situations - hunting butterflies, ice-skating, attending a party.

Mime, according to M. Marceau, is the form of dramatic expression closest to humanity. "A mime," he has said, "can come closest to identification with both human beings and inanimate objects and express the most carefully hidden feelings."

The artist first came to the United States in 1955, and has returned frequently since that time, performing in theatres and on television and almost always including Princeton in his itinerary.

'I WON'T TAKE A BATH'
(Sound Familiar?) It's the name of this year's production by the Paper Bag Players, and you can find out who it is that won't take a bath by going to McCarter for one of the two performances on Saturday, January 7, at 11 a.m. or 2 p.m. The Paper Bag Players, regular visitors to McCarter, create plays with music, using a variety of musical and dramatic sketches, and incorporating jokes, fantasies, dialogue and ideas from a child's regular experience in the everyday world. Wit and charm make the productions just as pleasant for adults.

Electronic music has been composed in rag-folk style by Donald Ashwander; actors are clear and easy to understand; props and scenery are made from wrapping paper, sheets, mops, lampshades or newspapers, and have been used to create everything from a furnished apartment to 1-95.

The audience is encouraged to join in the show, express opinions and join in the songs. Audience response often affects the outcome of the performance.

Reservations are available at the McCarter box-office, 921-8700.

12TH CENTURY HIT
"Play of Daniel." Music described by one critic as a cross between American folk songs and Gregorian chant, carries forward the action in New York Pro Musica's production of "The Play of Daniel," due on McCarter's stage at 8 p.m. Tuesday, January 3.

"The Play of Daniel" was written in the 12th century at the monastic school in Beauvais and was performed there for a hundred years before it was lost. The manuscript was uncovered in the British Museum and provided the basis for a performing version put together by a team of scholars and the late Noah Greenberg, director of New York Pro Musica.

It was given its first completely stage production in about 700 years by Pro Musica in 1957 at the Cloisters.

Authentic replicas of medieval musical instruments, including unusual percussion instruments, provide accompaniment for the songs and the action. Actors and singers in the Pro Musica costumes, perform in a stylized, almost mime-like fashion after the style of the day.

"A CHRISTMAS CAROL"
At MCCC, Mercer County Community College's Performing Arts Department will present Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" in two performances Thursday and Friday at 7 on the MCCC West Windsor campus.

This is the second play in a series of children's theatre. Seven year old Sean Boyce will play Tiny Tim. The irascible Scrooge will be Andrew Hornyak, with Bill Evans as Bob Cratchitt, his

A Clarification

The highly complex financial structure supporting the musical "Godspell" was outlined in skeletal form in last week's story on the show. The headline erroneously gave the impression that the nine Princeton backers got back about four times as much as they actually have received so far.

The three producers — Stuart Duncan of Princeton, Edgar Lansbury and Joe Beruh — own half the show, a traditional division between backers and producers. The arithmetic of the headline did not take this producers' share into account.

impoverished, ill-treated clerk. Frank Bilancio will portray Marley, and Annette Rutherford, E. Eric Metz and Rita Salzo will be the ghosts of Christmas past, present and future, respectively.

Other cast members include Julene Dolewa, Robert John, Sunni Farrington, Diane Such, Robin Hunt and Kelly Rodrigues. The production has been adapted and directed by Tom Moffit. Set design is by Bob Keane.

The performance is in one act lasting approximately one hour and 15 minutes.

More Than 200 PHS Students Will Take Part Thursday Night at 8 in Annual Winter Concert

Beginning with the Gregorian chant "Veni Creator Spiritus" sung by the men's choir of Princeton High School, the school's music department will present its annual winter concert this Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Princeton University Chapel.

The chant will be sung from the balcony, and after each verse, Nancianne B. Parrella will play the chorale and variations on this theme set for organ by Maurice Duruflé. Heinrich Schütz' "Erhöre Mich" from the Kleine Geistliches Concert, will follow and the men's chorus will conclude with "Angelus ad Pastores" by Monteverdi.

From the second balcony, the Recorder Club directed by bassoonist Jennifer Lehmann, will play "Puer Natus" by Pretorius. Again from the balcony, the Freshman Girls Chorus will present a 16th-century motet by Orlando di Lasso, "Oculus no vidit," followed by "Denn das Gesetz des Geistes" from Bach's motet, "Jesu, Meine Freude," ending with Alessandro Constantini's "Confitemini Domino."

Under Lewis Wyatt, its new director, the full band of 38 musicians will perform in a winter concert for the first time. The group will play "Panis Angelicus" by Cesar Franck, "Care Selva" by Handel and the Bach Prelude and Fugue in B-flat Major.

MUSIC

In Princeton

Change in Setting. Performing from the front of the chapel, the Princeton High School Women's Chorus will sing excerpts from Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols," with harp accompaniment.

The 60-member orchestra, directed by Portia Sonnenfeld, will present music from the "Royal Fireworks" suite of Handel; Robert Woodcock's Chamber Concerto Number Five, featuring flutists Sylvia Lavin and Claire Fontijn, and the Berceuse and Finale from Stravinsky's "Firebird."

The Princeton High School Choir will enter, with the traditional candlelight procession, to "Entrata Festiva" by Flor Peeters, with organ and brass.

The choir will then sing Hans L. Hassler's "Verbum Caro Factum Est;" Albert Becker's "Weihnachts Motette;" "Singet dem Herrn" of Johann Pachelbel; "Kommt her zu mir" by Heinrich von Herzogenberg and the Brahms motet, "Est ist das Heil."

Following a tradition of many years' standing, alumni of the Princeton High School choir will be invited to come forward from the audience to join in the singing of Bach's "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light," from the Christmas Oratorio, and the Handel "Hallelujah" chorus.

In past years, hundreds of alumni have joined the choirs in these two Christmas celebrations.

William R. Trego is director of the choral department of Princeton High School, and Mrs. Parrella is his associate. Noel Sell, student teacher from Westminster Choir College, will assist. Some 225 students will sing in the four choirs.

Fridays and Saturdays, and $10 on New Year's Eve. Tickets may be purchased at the box office at 414 George Street in New Brunswick.

One of the least-known yet most incredible records in football was made by a man named Guy Chamberlain ... When he played for the University of Nebraska in 1913-14-15, they never lost a game -- but that was only the beginning of Chamberlain's amazing winning record ... He entered the National Football League in 1921 with the Chicago Bears and they finished first ... Then he became player-coach of Canton in the NFL in 1922 and 1923 and they won the title both years, never losing a game either year ... Then he became player-coach with Cleveland in 1924 and THEY won the NFL title! ... And, finally he was coach of the Frankford team in the NFL in 1926 when they won the championship ... Thus, Chamberlain was with five different football teams in five different cities, and every one was a champion when he was there -- a record that may be unique in sports history.

Here's an interesting fact from the past big league baseball season ... Did you know that if Rod Carew had made just eight more hits in 1977, he would have batted .400, and become the first .400 hitter in the majors since 1941. Carew finished with 239 hits in 616 at bats for a final average of .388 ... If he had made 247 hits in those 616 at bats, his average would have been .401.

I bet you didn't know that our $10,000 deductible major medical with a $250,000 limit would cost a man age 40, wife age 38 and two children as little as $140 per year

Navarro Named New Princeton Football Coach; First Day on Job May Have Been His Hardest

Princeton University named a new football coach this week, introducing Frank Navarro, who spent six years in the Ivy League at Columbia, at a Monday morning press conference in Jadwin Gymnasium. Because his appointment became a matter of controversy a good 48 hours before it was official, he may find the going easier in some of the Tigers' games next fall than he did in handling a number of the difficult questions tossed at him during the hour-long session.

Because of the high degree of popularity that Bob Casciola had achieved during his five years here, and because he was dismissed over the repeated protests of his players, virtually anyone named would have had difficulty in taking over as his replacement. Two factors were working against him: others who had interviewed for the job were reportedly looked upon with greater preference by members of the Princeton team, and his own record at Columbia (16-36-2) was no more impressive than the figures which had resulted in Casciola's dismissal.

Much of the aura of player disappointment was dispelled at the outset by Bob Ehrlich, the linebacker who will serve as one of the co-captains next season with guard Greg Bauman. Ehrlich said that some two score players had met with Navarro for a lengthy session Sunday night, and it had proved most satisfactory.

"He was obviously in no way responsible for Coach Casciola's firing," Ehrlich pointed out. "He's our new coach and we think he will make a good leader in having our opinions heard as they have not been in the past. The feelings of disappointment we have had are behind us now."

Spell Out the Answers. Members of the media, however, had other points they wanted answered. Why did he leave Columbia? What were his relationships with the players there?

Why wasn't his record at Columbia any better? How many of the assistant coaches on Casciola's staff -- for whom the players have also gone to bat -- does he plan to retain?

In forthright, slightly intense fashion, Navarro said that he first asked the athletic department at Columbia when he had been there for four years whether he should think in terms of leaving. The answer, he said, was "no, plan to stay."

Two years later, in mid-season, he continued, "We had another discussion, and it was

Casciola Says "No"

To no one's surprise, Bob Casciola will not accept the offer from Princeton to continue here as an associate director of athletics. He had been offered the job following his dismissal as coach, one that would have entailed direction of football recruiting, including liaison with alumni groups throughout the country.

Indicating that he would no longer be a part of the Princeton picture, Casciola has said that he is looking into positions in both the coaching profession and in business. Friends feel that he, like Jake McCandless, may call the coaching job here his last and move into another field. He is understood to have turned down an offer from Bob Blackman, on whose staff he served at Dartmouth, to become defensive coach at Cornell.

on a basis of mutual agreement that 1973 would be my last year." His relationships with the players varied, he said frankly. "Some were good, some bad."

Most of the six-year period he spent in New York was marked by constant campus unrest over United States involvement in Vietnam and Cambodia. Student dissatisfaction was nationwide, but it was particularly manifest at Columbia, and the mood inevitably affected player morale. Navarro also pointed out -- but did not overly stress -- the fact that recruiting for football at Columbia has always been a difficult task, and that the Lions have not had a winning history in football in 30 years.

Decision on Staff Shortly. The Tigers' new coach (a 1953 graduate of Maryland and the father of eight) said that he hopes to have his staff settled by the first of the year, adding that he expects it to be a blend of those who have been here under Casciola and one or more of his assistants at Wabash College in Indiana, where he has been for the past four years. He is looking for player evaluation of the staff here, meetings with the six holdovers to learn of their preferences, and added with a dry touch, "I can't tell anything until I talk to them. Maybe they'll say, 'No way I'm going to work with you.'"

If Navarro never managed more than one first division finish in the Ivy League during his six years at Columbia (one third, three sixth and two last-place ties), he nonetheless has a variety of credits on his resume. While at Williams, he lost only five times in his last four seasons, and in 1967 was named New England Coach of the Year. A 6-3 season at Columbia in 1971 earned him Eastern College Coach of the Year honors from the New York Football Writers, and his appearance here has just been preceded by his selection on a similar basis in the district to which Wabash belongs. Each award came in his fourth year as head of the particular program of which he was in charge. At Wabash, his four-year mark was 26-17, and he has won 18 of 23 in the past two seasons at a college which did not have a winning record for 10 years prior to his arrival.

Navarro did use Monday's session to announce that a former Princeton aide who has been with him at Wabash will return here with him. Ken Bowman, who served here under Jake McCandless, will come back as offensive line coach and offensive coordinator.

While titles and duties vary from one staff to another, this would seem to make unlikely the retention of Tom Olivadotti and Gary Fallon, offensive line coach and offensive coordinator for Casciola. Both have reportedly been interviewed by Bob Blackman for vacancies that exist at Cornell.

Navarro vs. Tigers: 2-3-1

In the six years he coached Columbia, Frank Navarro won two, lost three and tied one in his games against Princeton.

He began with three straight defeats: 44-16 to Dick Colman's last team in 1968, 21-7 to Jake McCandless when the latter went on to earn a first-place tie in the Ivy League, and 24-22 the following year.

It was in 1971 that Navarro broke the longest domination the Tigers have ever held over an opponent in football when he won, 22-20, for Columbia's first victory in the series since 1945. The next year was marked by a rare 0-0 tie, with the Lions victorious in 1973, 14 to 13.

Season of Joy Comes Early to Tiger Five with Upset of Rutgers

Next time Pete Carril is disconsolate because Princeton's basketball team has lost a close game, he can derive more than a bit of solace from the 200th victory in his picturesquely successful coaching career. It came Saturday night in Jadwin Gym before a capacity crowd of 7,551 and was a nearly-perfect demonstration of how to upset a strong opponent which has frustratingly beaten you five times in a row.

Victim of the Tigers' return to the level of solid basketball was Rutgers, one of the East's top teams, fielding a front line averaging 50 points and considerably deeper in bench strength than the Orange and Black. Carril used just six players in achieving the 68-57 triumph, four of whom played the full rugged 40 minutes. Rutgers had nine in action, only one of them failing to get at least a few minutes' rest.

While all of the victors' half-dozen had a major part in the team's success, the most dramatic contribution came from the only one who did not start and who was not in at the finish. Consider Tom Young, the 6-11 reserve center, whose parents unintentionally saw to it that he has the same name as Rutgers' coach.

In late October, a brief misunderstanding between Carril and Young over plans for the Tiger junior's place in the lineup (starter or reserve) resulted in Young's departure from the squad. Two days later, with approval from the rest of the squad, he was back.

In five games this season, he had sat out one, been used a total of 18 1/4 minutes in the others, averaged 2.5 points and at Navy was by-passed in the late going when Bob Roma fouled out, in favor of another, much shorter player.

With less than five minutes gone in the Rutgers game, and the Scarlet about to overcome a seven-point deficit, Young got the call. Roma had drawn three extremely quick fouls trying to guard the Scarlet's fine center, 6-9 Jim Bailey, and the basketball hook says you never allow a key player to run the risk of picking up a fourth foul before the first half is over.

Ten seconds after Young entered the game, Bailey hit on a five-foot jump shot that Young could not block, putting the Knights ahead, 12-11, for the first time. But in the next 15 minutes, Young outscored the highly-regarded Rutgers' center, 12 to 6, a major contribution in Princeton's ability to take a 35-27 lead into the dressing room. When Roma returned, five minutes into the second half, Young left with 16 points on fine 8-for-10 shooting and the 45-35 lead his team had was sufficient to withstand every attempt at a rally the visitors launched.

Omeltchenko a Standout. Save for a span of 59 seconds early in the opening half, Rutgers trailed throughout the game. Two adept steals by Co-Captain Bill Omeltchenko — the first of seven the Orange and Black perpetrated in the opening half — led to a 3-0 lead, and that mounted to 11-4 as Roma got loose for a layup and Frank Sowinski caged a pair of jumpers from a dozen feet out.

Rutgers hung close after a tie at 17 but Young's variety of baskets, ranging from a 17-foot jump to a dunk that drew for a three-point play, gradually lifted the Tigers ahead. Their foul shooting continued at the blind-man's level (43 percent) but they recorded a fine 55 percent from the floor and were charged with only three turnovers to 11 for the Knights.

In contrast to the St. John's and Villanova games, which Princeton had lost in the closing minutes, Rutgers' best efforts were rejected on Saturday. The losers cut their deficit to four points twice, once right after play resumed, and later with 7:16 to go, at 51-47.

A stuff-shot by Roma off an inbounds pass under the Rutgers basket quickly regained the momentum and with 3:10 left it was 59-49, Princeton. Conversions on both ends of 1-and-1 opportunities by Bob Kleinert (who played all 40 minutes in the first start of his three-year varsity career) helped keep the Princeton margin safe.

Sowinski 13 for 16. Sowinski hit 26 points for the third time in a Princeton uniform, but his 13-for-16 shooting (81 percent) and his all-around play during the pressure of a major contest made the performance his best. In the face of a major Rutgers' height advantage, Princeton collared 25 rebounds to 28 for the Scarlet, and was guilty of only eight turnovers to 15 for the losers.

While the Orange and Black compiled a 62 percent shooting average in the second half to finish at 58 (10 points better than Rutgers), it was the traditional defensive display that made the unexpected outcome possible. Bailey's 20 points were just one short of his average, but Abdel Anderson and Hollis Copeland, averaging 29 points between them, were held to eight apiece. That was what the Tigers set out to do, and it was just about the difference in the final score.

Two Tournaments Next. One problem that Carril faced as the holiday tournaments began was his need to elevate two players on whom he had been counting as strong reserves to starting positions. Rich Rizzuto's backcourt ball-handling has proved essential at the guard matchup with Omeltchenko, and Kleinert's eye for the basket put him on the front line Saturday for the first time. He was a poor 1-for-6 from the floor, but converted on all six free throws, including a pair of technicals, to steady the Tigers in this department. The bench, however, is accordingly weaker.

It was Alabama in the Indiana Classic at Bloomington Tuesday night (too late for TOWN TOPICS' deadline), with Wednesday night's game against either the host team or Bowling Green. Next Tuesday, it will be Alabama again in Madison Square Garden, with that tournament to be completed the following Thursday against either Holy Cross or Georgetown.

Then the Ivy League season begins, with Penn coming here for a major battle on Tuesday, January 3. Seton Hall and Hofstra are the lone non-league foes thereafter.

Dunlap, Smith Out. In the days leading to selection of Navarro, others who had been mentioned as strong possibilities for the position were eliminated. Colgate's Fred Dunlap, who came here twice to be interviewed, determined that his future lay with his alma mater, where he is both coach and athletic director.

Homer Smith '54, on whom the spotlight had been turned rather sharply because of a close personal relationship with Athletic Director Royce Flippin, with whom he played in the same backfield here in the mid-50s, signed a one-year contract to continue at Army when no offer from Princeton was forthcoming. A source within the athletic department here said that "Nassau Hall apparently didn't want to run the risk of having Smith become the third alumnus in a row to be fired if he wasn't successful as a coach."

Others to whom the University talked (out of 100 reportedly "screened" for the job) included Bill Bowes of New Hampshire and Gene Carpenter of Millersville (Pa.) State Teachers. Both have had standout records in recent years, and when word was spread that both were acceptable to player personnel, Navarro had that much more to combat at Monday's press conference.

Same day he was appointed he left for Akron, O., to meet a group of high school seniors who are football players and who may be interested in coming to Princeton. "How far behind in recruiting are you," he was asked, "now that you are just starting out?"

TRIP IS SUCCESSFUL

For PDS Hockey Team. It's been several years since a Princeton Day hockey team could boast about a 5-1 record, but this year's squad has achieved that mark based more on its own hard work rather than a surfeit of talent.

The two victories against one loss that the Panthers garnered on their trip to New England has given them solid beginning. The team will break for the Christmas holidays now (playing the alumni Dec. 27), and return to action Jan. 7.

The schedule won't get any easier, but the Blue and White is coming to realize that desire and hard work can more than make up for any lack of talent. Brick, which won the high school championship last year, will be the Jan. 7 opponent, followed by Hill on Jan. 11. These two contests, both at home, will give a good indication of how much the Panthers can achieve this season.

The New England trip also proved the players have better than average endurance. Arriving at its destination well after midnight on Wednesday, because of poor driving conditions, the team faced St. Mark's at 11 a.m. Thursday, and came away with a 2-1 victory.

John Rodgers had both goals for PDS, the first to open the scoring in the first period, and the other in the third, after the home team had tied the score in the second. Neither team could manage many shots on goal, and both were charged with more than the usual number of two-minute infractions. However Doug Matthews and Tom Gates have emerged as an effective penalty killing pair.

Loomis Too Strong. That victory put the Panthers into the quarterfinals of the eight-team tournament against Loomis at 7 p.m. that night, but the long hours began to catch up with the Blue and White skaters.

Loomis managed to get one goal in the first, added two more in the second, and won going away with four in the third, two of those in the last minute. Coach Harry Rulon-Miller credited the fine play of goalie Jeff Johnson with keeping the Panthers close as long as possible. "Johnson's play kept us in every game," Rulon-Miller observed. "But, in this one we made just too many mistakes on execution." Loomis turned out to be the eventual tourney champion.

The following day, PDS played its third contest in 24 hours, meeting Middlesex in a consolation round. Wasting no time, it caught its opponent off guard with a three-goal outburst in the first 10 minutes of play. Kent Wilkinson, Tom Gates and Mike Shannon produced the scores.

Middlesex began to come to life in the second period, getting one goal back, but Rodgers restored the three-goal margin shortly thereafter. The losers, again cut the deficit to two early in the third, but Shannon answered with his second goal. The icing on the cake was a shorthanded goal produced by Matthews on a pass from Gates.

Short Two Players. "We were tired, but tried harder to eliminate the mental mistakes," Rulon-Miller commented. "We also were short two players, John Drezner out with a sprained thumb and Ward Taggart, sidelined after taking a very hard hit in the Loomis game."

"This made Kevin Johnson our third defenseman, and he saw plenty of ice time, doing a pretty consistent job for a ninth grader. He ended up with two assists."

Part of the team's success can be attributed to the consistent forechecking it is doing this year. Rodgers has been outstanding in this department, Rulon-Miller noted.

"It was a satisfactory experience for us," said Rulon-Miller. "The boys came away with an awareness of what it takes to win hockey games. The play by our defense is going to be the key to our ability to win games."

The Panthers tuned up for the New England trip with a 5-0 triumph over Montclair-Kimberly, in a contest closer than the score indicates. Again, fine goal tending by Johnson held off the opposition skaters until PDS could get its offense moving.

Shannon put the Blue and White on the scoreboard in the first period, and added another five minutes into the second. "He is awfully accurate when he has a clear shot," Rulon-Miller remarked. PDS put the game out of reach in the last minute and a half of the second period when Lucky Pyne tallied twice and Rodgers once.

PHS FIVE WINS FIRST

Kennedy Tourney Next. Princeton High School's basketball team will be trying for a hat trick in the Kennedy Memorial Invitation tournament that will be held Monday through Friday in Everittstown.

Last year, the Little Tigers, en route to a 10-0 start, defeated North Hunterdon, 67-61, in the finals to win the Kennedy Tournament crown for the second year in a row—the first time for a team to repeat in the tournament's eight-year history.

Last week was an upper and downer for PHS. The upper came Friday when the Little Tigers defeated Allentown, 78-65, for its first win in three starts. The downer occurred two days earlier in Ewing where the Blue Devils obliterated PHS, 89-37, leading 48-8 at the half.

Before the start of the Allentown game here Friday, PHS coach Marvin Trotman was telling PHS athletic director Norman Van Arsdalen that his team was going to have to score some points early and get out of the rut of having to play catchup.

The Little Tigers did just that. Opening shots by John Sapoch, Bob Flippin and Kevin Robinson staked PHS to a quick 6-0 lead, which the home team soon expanded to 13-2. PHS never trailed.

By game's end, PHS had three players in double figures for the first time, led by sophomore Kevin Robinson with 26. Playmaker Mike Fuschini rebounded from a subpar performance against Ewing with 16 points and Bob Flippin, who has earned a starter's role, added 13.

In addition, the Blue and White cut down on its turnovers, committing only nine in the first period, and out-jumped the Red Birds under the boards, pulling down 43 rebounds. Robinson had 15 while Jeff Marshall had 11. Marshall's seven defensive rebounds in the second half was more than PHS had in the entire first half.

Trotman, however, refused to be drawn into any rosy conclusions after the victory. "We're loosening up," he allowed, adding "it was a good weekend to get a win."

Foul Shots Aid Allentown. Only some frequent foul shooting kept Allentown (2-2) in the game. Sixteen of its 30 points in the first half were from the charity line where it finished with 27 compared to 12 for PHS. The closest Allentown came to narrowing the gap was 31-26 in the second period.

In the second half, Allentown went to a full court press but PHS refused to cave in to the pressure. The shooting of Robinson (16 points) and Fuschini (10) kept PHS in front in the first half. In the final period, seven PHS players scored 26 points, 10 more by Robinson who was blanked in the third period.

In addition to his standout play on the boards, Marshall had seven points, Sapoch and reserve Dave Johnson, six each, and Kim Beasley and Tyrone Young, two each. Randy Capes and Reuben Trammell combined for 28 points to pace the losers.

Ewing No Contest. Ewing wasn't hot against Princeton High, it was scalding. The home team Blue Devils, stung from an upset win by St. Anthony in its previous start, took it out on the Little Tigers.

They connected on an incredible 23 of 28 first-half attempts to go up 48-8. Ewing won the second half by a more respectable 12 points but even coach Emil Wandishin agreed that on this particular day his Ewing team would have beaten anyone.

All Trotman could point to was the emergence of Flippin who, blanked in the first game, led PHS with 15 points, 13 in the second half. Johnson had six. PHS shot a poor 25 percent while Ewing cooled off from its blistering 89 percent in the first half to end with 52 percent.

PAYTON REACHES 2,000

As Hun Nips Delbarton. "It was," Hun School basketball coach Dave Leete, readily conceded, "a good game."

And a memorable one. Needing 24 points to reach 2,000 career points, Hun center Ron Payton pumped in 23 in the first half against unbeaten Delbarton, as Hun overcame a 23-18 first period deficit to lead by one at the half. Payton added 19 more in the second half for 42 points to offset a 31-point effort by Delbarton's Bob Kelley. Hun won the seesaw game — its fourth in five starts — 71-69.

Although no other Hun player scored more than eight points in the game, Leete was quick to deny that Hun is a one-man team. He insisted that Payton's rebounding helps Hun even more, (the 6-5 Payton had 18 against Delbarton) and past games this season bear Leete out.

While the Delbarton win was not a Penn-Jersey league game, Leete said that the outcome would have a lot to do with the seedings in the prep school state tournament at the end of the season. Even more satisfying, Delbarton, which lost only a couple last year, had all five of its starters back and Leete had picked them as the team to beat this season.

Payton 15 of 17. Payton gave Hun a little breathing room in the final period when he converted two free throws and scored on a tip in to give Hun a 65-60 advantage. He hit on 15 of 17 and 12 of 15 free throws. Teammates Bob Innocenzi and Pete Black added eight apiece.

With that kind of shooting ability is 3,000 points a possibility? Probably not but as Leete pointed out, Payton scored more than 700 last year "and there is no reason to think he can't do the same this year."

Hun will participate again in the annual Hightstown Christmas Tournament next Wednesday, Dec. 28. Last year Hun finished fourth among the four participating teams and it is looking forward to changing that.

In addition to Hun and Hightstown, Lawrence High and Chestnut Hill will participate.

Earlier in the week, in a mismatch, Hun crushed winless Admiral Farragut, 87-28, leading 51-15 at the half. The game was played in Toms River.

It was little more than a "long ride down and back in the rain," commented Leete. Payton equalled the Future Admirals' total output with 28 points. Black added 14 points, Bill Comly 13, while Brian Lee and Innocenzi had 10 each.

PDS BEATS W. WINDSOR

Loses to Delbarton. "We're just a struggling bunch of guys," Princeton Day coach Alan Taback commented this week, reflecting on his team's 3-2 record at the onset of the Christmas holidays.

"We haven't proven anything yet, and the boys know it."

In five games so far this season, the Panthers have lost to Collegiate by one point and Delbarton by four, a pair of tough defeats. In past years, the Blue and White has compiled an enviable record in winning close contests, where one or two baskets can make the difference.

The three victories came against mediocre competition, Newark Academy, Adelphi and West Windsor. PDS limited Newark to 29 two weeks ago and last Friday beat West Windsor, 59-28.

A 25-point second quarter, highlighted by Jim Cox's 14 points, put the West Windsor game away early, making it 35-16 at the half. Mike Walters had 16 and Carl Hill 15.

Delbarton, with four of its starting five back from last year, came into the Princeton Day gym thirsting for revenge after losing to PDS the last three years, and snuck away with a 49-45 win. The visitors got off to an early 10-0 lead and held on the rest of the way. Walters was high for the Panthers with 24.

In the last quarter, PDS went to a full court press and closed within four points. It had a chance to narrow the gap to two but was tagged with a disputed backcourt violation.

Its in the closing minutes of a close game that you really separate the good teams from the average ones, and this is where PDS needs the work.

Taback will work hard with his players this week in preparation for the Hamilton Tournament, which begins December 28. There PDS will be joined by Steinert and Father Judge, a fine parochial school from Philadelphia as well as the host team. "It will be an early test of where we are going to be at," Taback observed.

The Panthers are matched against Hamilton in the opening round at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 28, with the finals set for Friday evening. As a warm-up, the Blue and White will take on the Alumni on Monday evening, Dec. 26.

As a start toward playing better ball, Taback hopes the team will be rid of the flu, which has hit many of the players over the past two weeks. Taback, himself, missed the Delbarton game.

PHS MATMEN 2-0

North Brunswick Here Wednesday. After his team's impressive opening victory over Lawrenceville School, Princeton High wrestling coach Tom Murray was somewhat restrained. "One win doesn't make a season," he said.

Well, now the Little Tigers have won two in a row, after another impressive, 30-20, win over Woodrow Wilson, last week. Clearly, PHS is a better balanced team than last year. And what does Murray say now?

"We wrestled well," Murray acknowledged. "We're definitely a better team than we were last year."

Incidentally, the win over Woodrow Wilson was Princeton's first ever over that school. The WW coach told Murray at the end of the match that "this is not the same type of Princeton team that we have wrestled in the past."

Princeton High has one more match before the annual Irish Invitational Meet at Notre Dame on December 28 in which all the county high schools participate and which is an excellent litmus test as to who is king in Mercer.

That will be this Wednesday evening at 8 when PHS entertains North Brunswick

"We should do well," predicted Murray about the North Brunswick match. His main concern is a healthy team. As many as 16 on the squad has suffered bouts with the flu - "It's a good thing we didn't have a match on Saturday," he said - but Murray said he felt everyone would be ready for the Brunswick match.

Against Woodrow Wilson, the visiting Little Tigers started with a bang. Bruce Cobb pinned Pete Mahalic in 49 seconds for six quick points as the Blue and White swept to a 19-0 lead after five bouts.

Matt Wilkinson, 108-pounder, followed with a 4-0 decision, sophomore John Tazelaar won his first match at 115 pounds, a wild 15-10 decision over Dave Haman; older brother Eric Tazelaar won a major decision, an 8-0 blanking of Mike Placentino, and Bob Schmidt won, 4-1, at 129 pounds.

Woodrow Wilson broke the PHS victory string in the 135-

Some of the country's top young paddle players will gather in Princeton next week for the first National Intercollegiate Platform Tennis Championships, with Princeton University and the Princeton area serving as co-hosts.

Sponsored by the American Platform Tennis Association, the championships will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, December 27 and 28th, on area courts. The finals, the best three out of five sets for the men, is scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday at Bedens Brook Club. The public is invited. In case of rain, it will be re-scheduled for Thursday.

Entrants are expected

Also participating will be Louis Mathews and Jim Bennet, members of Princeton University's team which this Fall won its second title in the intercollegiate Metropolitan Platform Tennis League.

There may also be a corresponding women's tournament, depending upon the number of entrants.

parents, after the report has been discussed with the child.

Keeping It Small. Eventually, Ms. Benson and Ms. Young would like to cooperate with the public schools, and although they don't want Newgrange ever to be large, they are talking about ways to serve more children. It's vital, they believe, for a student and teacher to know one another well.

Newgrange is authorized to take children under New Jersey's Beadleston law, providing schooling for children "with a condition that doesn't allow participation in regular school situations."

"But our children aren't that different," Ms. Young points out. "They are just out of synch."

Not every Newgrange applicant is accepted because Ms. Benson and Ms. Young may feel that Newgrange isn't the program that particular child needs. Information about the school may be obtained by calling 921-3766 or 921-8332, or writing to Newgrange, 457 Nassau, Princeton.

lb. division, where Bob Ayling was pinned by Joe Flori in 2:51. WW picked up 12 more points when Kevin Finley flattened Mike Santoro, PHS 158-pounder, and by a forfeit in the heavyweight class.

But PHS gained the points it needed to win on three more decisions. Dave Wilson decided Glenn Parsons, 6-2, in their 141-pound match; Gary Carnevale edged Rich Armstrong, 5-4, at 158 pounds, and Karem El-Meligi stopped Wilson's 188-pound wrestler, Brian Goodraw, 6-2.

Keith Wadsworth of PHS and Jeff Harris battled to a 3-3 draw in the 170-pound match.

WW MATMEN SPLIT

Oppose Trenton Next. Splitting two dual meet matches last week, the West Windsor wrestling team will try for victory number three this Wednesday evening when it plays host to Trenton High. Varsity matches will start at 8.

Early last week, WW had made it two lopsided wins in a row when it scored six pins to wallop Green Brook, 57-11. On Saturday, it was West Windsor's turn as favored North Hunterdon won, 37-12, in a match that was closer than the score indicated. At the end of the 135-lb. bout -- halfway through the match -- WW trailed, 12-10. "It was mighty What's in a Name?

In Newgrange, Ireland, in the valley of the Boyne River, are some ordinary, every-day looking hills. Not much to attract the tourist's eye.

But within those hills, hidden deep in caves, are beautiful carvings made by early man, work of exquisite artistry which no one would dream was there.

"To uncover the potential riches, buried in human beings, that is the meaning of Newgrange to me," explains Fran Benson, and that is why, after a visit to Newgrange, she gave the name to the school.

quiet in that (Hunterdon) gym," said WW coach Ken Bernabe.

"We're not pleased with a loss but we are pleased with the improvement we've shown. Our kids were not intimidated in the least by Hunterdon," Bernabe commented.

The gutiest performance in all 12 matches, according to Bernabe, was one WW didn't win. He was speaking of a 5-5 draw in the 158-lb. match between Ralph Barletta and Hunterdon's highly-favored Vince McGourty.

There were no takedowns. In the second period, McGourty gained an escape and near fall for four points to take a 4-1 lead. Then with 1:07 left in the match, Barletta used an over and under hold to escape and put McGourty on his back.

If the referee had anticipated and got down quicker, Barletta would have received a five count worth three points, Bernabe maintained. "McGourty was flat on his back; he couldn't believe it." Instead, Barletta was awarded two points. The match ended tied when McGourty received a point for riding time. "What a match!" said Bernabe.

"He Gildes." He described Barletta, who only participated in two varsity bouts last year before being sidelined with a broken finger, as "the smoothest wrestler I have ever coached. He doesn't wrestle, he glides." His style, continued Bernabe, offsets the strong, bull-type, intimidating wrestler such as McGourty.

West Windsor won the opening match when Wally McIntyre, the Pirate's 101-pounder, dominated his opponent for a 6-0 decision. John Houtenville, WW's touted 129-pound standout, was comfortably ahead 5-0 in his match with 30 seconds to go when he got too high on his opponent. The result: an escape and near fall and a close 5-4 decision for Houtenville. "In no way did the score indicate the composure of the match," said Bernabe.

WW scored four more points in the 135-lb. match when John Cummings gained on a reverse near the end of the match to win 8-0 and score a major decision.

Although they lost decisions, Bernabe also cited Mark Edenfield who lost 7-4 at 115 pounds, and Guy Blleloch, who lost 5-0 at 122 pounds, to highly rated opponents. Darren Rash lost a 5-2 decision at 148 pounds.

The only surprise in the Green Brook win was McIntyre's defeat in the opening match. He was pinned by Green Brook's Jim Paltjon in 2:41.

West Windsor got pins from Brian Fahey (5:33), Houtenville (0:28), Cummings (1:07), Gerry Gillette (0:48), Bill Andrews (2:26) and heavyweight Tim Gunkel of several high schools (2:29).

Green Brook forfeited the Beacham of Princeton High 115, 122 and 158-pound matches. In the only decision of PDS. The intermediates among the 12 bouts, Scott Stebbins of WW defeated Greg Marotta, 9-2, at 148 pounds.

ABLE STAFF READY

For Winter Soccer Club. The Princeton Soccer Club will begin its annual winter program January 14 with one of the most experienced coaching staffs in the club's three year history.

Bernie Shanfield is a former all-state player from Princeton High and Epp Winant is currently training for his advanced referee's certification in New Jersey. Assisting them will be Rich McHale, athletic director at St. Paul's School, and John Jamieson, junior varsity coach at Princeton Day School.

The training of older players will be under the supervision of several high schools coaches, including Ed

Beacham of Princeton High and Jamieson and Dan Bailey of PDS. The intermediates will be under the direction of Princeton University players Tony Garcia and Jim Chambers. Both groups will also benefit from the instruction of former Penn State player and American Soccer League standout Ciro Baldino.

An added feature of the indoor program are the special training sessions for especially experienced or talented players. Princeton University captain and two-time all-Ivy selection Frank Sharry and Princeton Soccer Club director Dick Broad will be the coaches for these groups.

Openings are still available in most age groups but those interested are urged to send in their registration forms immediately. Those seeking further information should call 737-1675.
